POETRY FOR YOUR HOME

A collection of mirrors,
home accessories and architectural hardware.
All handmade in Belgium.

"Our collection is more than just bathroom necessities; they are pieces of poetry crafted meticulously by Belgian artisans."

As an Interior designer, Julie often lacked finding beautiful home accessories for her projects. It led to the idea of illus, where the love for minimalistic design is combined with a passion for craftsmanship. A collection of mirrors, home accessories and architectural hardware: objects that are often forgotten by other designers, but are present in every home or office. The name illus is derived from the word illusion: clever objects can create illusions of light and space.

Handmade quality from Belgium

We partner with the finest craftsmen in Belgium to create our collection. Each piece is meticulously handcrafted, passing through several skilled hands before it reaches yours. This artisanal process introduces subtle variations, ensuring that every item is one-of-a-kind. Embrace the natural patina that develops over time, adding character and evolving charm to each creation.

Long lasting love

Illus embodies sustainability through its timeless design and materials that only grow more beautiful with age. We have witnessed our customers treasure our products throughout their lives, as each piece is lovingly crafted to last forever, becoming a cherished element that tells a story over time. Reflecting the highest standards of Belgian handmade quality and craftsmanship, our collection represents a thoughtful choice. The lasting beauty, durability, and unique character of our products provide long-term value, enhancing the overall ambiance of your interior, restaurant or hotel.

OUR NEW FINISHES

With the introduction of Polished Nickel and Brushed Nickel, we enrich our palette with refined, contemporary tones that enhance the timeless essence of Illus.

The soft lustre of polished nickel subtly plays with light and reflection, while the brushed finish reveals a more tactile, matte depth. Together, these finishes mark a refined evolution of our material palette, further supporting our poetic approach to form and function.

OUR FINISHES

At illus, each piece is handcrafted, and no two are exactly alike.
The subtle variations that emerge are expressions of character — and the very beauty of illus.

We work with two noble material families: BRASS and NICKEL.
Each finish carries its own depth, tactility and character — from evolving patinas to refined, fixed tones.

BRASS FINISHES

Brass is a material with memory. It reacts to its environment, responds to touch and develops a depth that only time can create. Its warmth and subtle tonal variations bring quiet richness to architectural spaces.

Within our brass collection, we offer finishes that either continue to evolve naturally, or are carefully preserved in a fixed state.

Aged Brass

The aged brass patina typically exhibits an antiqued appearance, resembling brass that has developed a natural patina over time. It may feature subtle variations in color, with hues ranging from golden to deeper amber tones. This finish is prized for its vintage or rustic charm, evoking a sense of history and character. It adds warmth and depth to the overall aesthetic, making it suitable for spaces with traditional, vintage, or transitional decor styles.v

Dark Brass

The dark brass patina offers a more dramatic and contemporary aesthetic compared to aged brass. It features deeper, richer tones, often leaning towards shades of bronze, charcoal, or espresso. Dark brass patina finishes exude sophistication and modernity, making them well-suited for contemporary or industrial-inspired interiors. The darker tones create a striking contrast against lighter surroundings, adding visual interest to the space.

HOW EACH FINISH EVOLVES OVER TIME

For brass, the appearance depends on the protective layer applied after crafting. There are two options: waxed and varnished.
For accessories and mirrors, the standard finish is fixed.
The choice between waxed and varnished only applies when ordering architectural hardware — door handles, window handles and cabinet handles.

Within our brass collection, we offer finishes that either continue to evolve naturally, or are carefully preserved in a fixed state.

Living Finish - Waxed

A waxed brass finish keeps evolving with use. In wet areas this is generally not an issue, but on pieces that are touched frequently — such as door handles — the patina will change quickly and become more personal over time.

Fixed finish - Varnished

With the varnished finish, the patina created in the atelier is sealed and fixed. The tone remains stable over time and will not noticeably evolve through normal use. For the toilet brush and bin, this is a standard finish.

Unique by nature

The environment in which a brass finish is created plays a defining role in its final appearance. Factors such as humidity, temperature fluctuations, and atmospheric conditions within the atelier subtly influence the process. These variables result in delicate variations in colour, texture, and patina intensity—ensuring that no two pieces are ever exactly alike.
This natural diversity gives each item its own distinct character and quiet individuality.

Naturally Hygienic

Beyond its visual appeal, brass is valued for its inherent antimicrobial properties. It actively helps reduce the presence of bacteria on its surface, contributing to a more hygienic environment. This makes brass an especially suitable choice for hospitality and high-touch spaces, where both aesthetics and functionality are essential. Our products combine this natural advantage with timeless design, offering a balance of elegance, durability, and practicality.distinct character and quiet individuality.

NICKEL FINISHES

Nickel offers a cooler, more restrained elegance.
Where brass speaks in warmth, nickel reflects light with clarity and precision.
Its subtle silver tones integrate effortlessly into both contemporary and classic environments.

Nickel Brushed

Nickel brushed has a soft, satin texture that diffuses light gently across the surface.

The fine brushing creates a delicate linear structure, adding tactility without overpowering the design. Understated yet expressive, this finish offers quiet sophistication and pairs beautifully with natural materials such as stone, wood and textiles.

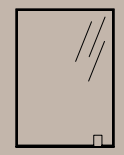

Nickel Polished

Nickel polished is luminous and refined.
Its smooth, reflective surface enhances light and highlights the purity of architectural lines.
The mirror-like quality gives a sense of precision and elegance, making it particularly suited for interiors that value clarity and sharpness in form.
